CARRARA MARBLE.
CARRARA marble is associated with the silent beauty of great cathedrals and monuments. There is none of that dignity about the place of its origin. The little Italian town of Carrara, huddled beside the mountain quarries for which it exists, is a place of confusion and clamor, of men and beasts laboring to supply the world with a commodity.

The Pyrenean mountains have been supplying this marble for centuries. The quarry workers have for years toiled, as their ancestors before them toiled, to keep up the steady outflow of Carrara marble for the hand of sculptor and architect, and even to make possible that ornament beloved of our grandmothers, the marble topped table.

Carrara exists for the last day of the week. Then, clutching its earnings so hardy won, it hastens to the seashore, huddled beside the sea for a few intoxicating hours throws off the grip of the quarries.

The skilled German mechanic rarely earns more than $5 a day. Recently a man sold to Berlin for $125 a day on a car. A very ordinary meal costs $1.50—From London's.

Alkali in Soap
Bad For the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully. If you want to keep your hair looking its best, most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mildified coconut oil (which is pure and grassless), and is better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use.

One or two transparent will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mildified coconut oil at any pharmacy. It's a few cents, and a few cents will supply every member of the family for months.—Adv.

HIGH HEELS PUT CORNS ON TOES

Tells women how to dry up a corn so it lifts out without pain.

Modern high-heeled footwear buckles the toes and produces corns, and many of the thousands of hospital cases of infection and lockjaw are the result of woman's suicidal habit of trying to cut away these painful pests. For little cost there can be obtained at any pharmacy a quarter of an ounce of a drug called freestone, which is sufficient to dry the foot of every hard or soft corn or callus without the slightest danger or inconvenience.

A few drops applied directly upon the tender, aching corn stops the soreness and shortly the entire corn, root and all, lifts right out. It is a sticky substance, which dries the moment it is applied, and thousands of men and women use it because the corn shrinks up and comes out without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue on skin. Cut it out and try it. It's your corn's best friend.—Adv.

Bedtime Stories For The Little Ones

UNCLE WIGGLY'S LETTUCE CAKE.

By HOWARD GARIS

"RAT-A-TAT-TAT!" came a knock, rattling at the door of the hollow stump bungalow where Uncle Wiggly Longears, the bunny rabbit gentleman, lived.

"I wonder if that is Nurse Jane coming back?" he said, as he hopped up to see.

The muskrat lady housekeeper, as I told you two or three stories ago, had come to visit Mrs. Wiggly, the duck lady, to help her make some bed quilts for Lulu, Alice and Jimmie, the duck children.

"No, it isn't Nurse Jane," said Uncle Wiggly as he looked. "It's my friend, Grandfather Goosey Gander. I'll let him in. I'm glad he came to see me."

In came Grandfather Goosey, shaking the snow off his feet and flapping his wings to get them warm, for it was a cold day.

"Come right in and make yourself at home, Grandpa," cried Uncle Wiggly. "Draw up to the fire! I'm glad to see you!"

"And I'm glad to see you," said Mr. Gander. "I came over to see if you were going to do any cooking today."

"Well, yes, I may," said Uncle Wiggly, "if I can get some lettuce to make a lettuce cake."

"Oh, not a very scrumptious party," said Grandpa Goosey, "affluent like. Only extemporaneous. Just a few old ducks, you and Uncle Butter, the goat, Mr. Whitehead, the polar bear, Mr. Twinstail, the pig chap, possibly Dr. Pussman, and a few others. I'm sure they would enjoy a lettuce cake if you could make one."

"I will," said Uncle Wiggly, bravely. "I never made a lettuce cake in all my life, but that is no reason I should not try. Now that you are here it is a good chance to begin. You shall help me make a lettuce cake."

"Who, me? I don't know the first thing about cooking!" said Grandpa Goosey. "Well, between us we'll make a lettuce cake," said the bunny rabbit gentleman, "and let me see, what ought we to do first?"

"Get the lettuce, I should say," said Grandpa Goosey.

"Right you are," said Uncle Wiggly. "I happen to have some lettuce down the cellar. I saved it over from my summer garden. I'll get it and then we'll make the cake."

So, the rabbit and the goose gentleman started in. They put out on the kitchen table sugar and salt and butter and pepper and flour and baking powder—you know, all the things that go in a lettuce cake. The green leaves of the lettuce were brought up from the cellar and washed.

Uncle Wiggly was mixing up the cake batter and Grandpa Goosey was helping him, handing him the mustard, the vinegar, the sugar, what-ever Mr. Longears wanted when, all of a sudden, the door of the kitchen opened and in came the bad old Skunk-demon.

"Ah, ha! What have we here?" asked the Skunk-demon, just as if he didn't know. "Come! This is fine! A rabbit, a goose and—what's this?" he asked, as he saw the things on the table.

"ACTRESS TELLS SECRET
A Well Known Actress Tells How to Darken Gray Hair With a Simple Home Made Mixture.

Jolene Williams, the well known American actress, who was recently playing at the Imperial Theatre in St. Louis, Mo., made the following statement about gray hair and how to darken it:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home, at very little cost, that will darken gray streaks or faded hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half pint water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 1/2 ounce of glycerine. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost, or any druggist can put it up for you. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray haired person look 20 years younger. This is not a dye, it does not color the most delicate scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.—Adv.

Beauty Chats By Edna Kent Forbes

The Elder Woman's Problem.

As soon as the muscles of the face and neck show that tendency to sag, it means aging. It matters not whether the woman is 25 or 30. This is the time to get to work and counteract the tendency at once. For if she is a thin woman, it will quickly mean lines and deeply cut lines in both the face and neck and that horrible,ropy appearance under the chin.

A stout woman will have still another problem for she will get that heavy pouch under her chin, since the loose skin will fill up with fat. The proper thing to do will be to get the muscles of the face and neck toned up, that they will not sag and get a chance either to firm, or to be pulled out with fatty deposits. However, that cannot be done in a day, and for an immediate help comes the astringent.

The young face will not need this treatment regularly, but the older woman should make the astringent treatment the most important in all her beauty culture. Three times a week the astringent should be applied to the face and neck and allowed to dry on for at least 15 minutes. At first it will feel as if the skin is being pulled up until it is taut, then it will dry and support the muscles for a period while it tones and hardens the skin. After this remove it with a towel dipped in very warm water. Follow this with a gentle massage, using flesh building cream. The vitamin instead of massage will be the best method of treatment if you know how to use it. After the skin has absorbed all that it needs, wipe off the surplus cream and apply a small piece of ice, rolled in a sheer piece of linen. Rub this gently over the face and neck, making sure that all the muscles in front of the ear and behind it on the neck, are getting special tending.

All this care to the skin may sound as if it takes a great deal of time from other things, but if managed properly, it can be done without feeling it. One woman I know says she uses her astringent directly after the cleansing cream, and the time she is about to take her bath. This woman is fully 60 years old, with many grandchildren, already half grown up, yet she has a skin like a girl and looks younger than several of her daughters.

The astringent remains on the face while she bathes. She rarely uses water on her face and neck, depending on her cream, massage and ice as the only things needed for cleansing and toning the skin.

HOROSCOPE

FRIDAY, JANUARY 24, 1919.

MERCURY rules strongly for good during the busy hours today and late in the evening Jupiter is in benefic aspect.

It is a time for making large plans and for entering into partnerships or agreements.

The way is advantageous for the signing of contracts, especially those of a business nature.

Many changes in all mercantile concerns are indicated. There will be increased demand for efficiency and a trend toward scientific attainment, even in insignificant occupations.

Education, which will be the most important consideration in 1919, is to be demanded of workers in every line of activity, but it will be not book learning but job learning.

The craning of this day is a most propitious time for hangers at which public questions are discussed.

Plans for large enterprises will be well directed today and the seeds of progress that many new lines of activity will be pursued.

Carriers come under a sway making for great prosperity and much intensive farming will be introduced, it is predicted.

Weather conditions during February and March may be extraordinarily severe in Chicago, New York and Boston. Storms at sea may cause serious loss of life and property.

Increase of the birthrate is again forecast and it is prognosticated that extraordinary children will be given to the nation.

Germany will profit from the ministrations of a great teacher who will preach love instead of hate, astrologers declare.

The death of the Kaiser, predicted for last year, is not far off, if the stars are read aright.

Difficulties in making some national project succeed may give anxiety to a public man, who is to become a national leader of the first rank.

Persons whose birthdate it is have much to smile at. They should guard against false friends and not worry over trifles.

Children born on this day may be careless and extravagant but they are usually bright and clever. They should be carefully trained for aquatic sports after have great talents.—Copyright, 1919, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Syrup Keeps Down Food Costs

When everything now is going sky-high and nearly all articles of food have increased as much as 50%, it is a good thing to consider using more of a food which will be nutritious and healthy and at the same time not cost so much. Syrup is one of these few foods. Not only is it healthy but it furnishes to the body the fuel needed to keep it going.

Dunbar's Syrup

Dunbar's King Komus Syrup is the syrup for you to buy. It is made in Louisiana right where the sugar cane grows, and the syrup has the flavor of the cane itself. It is pure and unadulterated. It is put up in a model factory in sanitary cans. Because Dunbar's King Komus is pure you get full food value. It is, therefore, the cheapest in the end. Eat more Dunbar's King Komus Syrup and keep down the cost of living. Ask Your Grocer.
